Statement from Orange County Health Commissioner

(Goshen, NY) – Orange County Health Commissioner Dr. Jean M. Hudson made the following statement today regarding safe well-water during and after Hurricane Irene:

Homes where the wellhead may have been submerged under water should boil water for cooking and drinking, or use bottled water until the current situation is resolved and residents have tested their water for bacteria.

For additional information, please view the Health Department's Environmental Health page on Orange County's website at www.orangecountygov.com.
